

SeekingSitters Franchise Systems, Inc. Adding New Locations

SeekingSitters is an on-demand, full service babysitting franchise that does all the work for parents. The company is growing quickly as couples embrace this business opportunity as a good investment during troubled economic times.

Oct. 21, 2008 - PRLog -- Tulsa, Oklahoma – SeekingSitters Franchise Systems Inc. is pleased to announce it is opening six (6) new franchises within the next month.

The national on-demand, full service babysitting company has sold three (3) new franchises in Orange County, California and one each in Houston, Texas; Norman, Oklahoma; and Boise, Idaho.

SeekingSitters now maintains 22 franchises in 8 states with opportunities for new franchises available nationwide.

Founded in 2004 by Adrienne and David Kallweit in Tulsa, Oklahoma, SeekingSitters provides on-demand, reliable and trustworthy babysitting service with an in-depth screening process. Adrienne is a licensed private investigator and SeekingSitters has in-house private investigators that thoroughly screen all sitters and member families.

SeekingSitters is unique because of their web-based service that allows families to find a safe, reliable and trustworthy babysitter by simply logging onto the website, requesting a sitter and SeekingSitters does all the work! The company's web-based business model allows franchise owners to run a successful business from their iPhone, laptop or home computer. All franchise owners are moms and dads of young children who have built a successful business while allowing time for their family.

SeekingSitters was named one of the "Top 25 Women-Owned Businesses in 2008" by Working Mother Magazine and was featured on "The Big Idea" with Donny Deutsch. SeekingSitters also received Tulsa, Oklahoma's First Annual Entrepreneurial Spirit Award in November 2007.
