Dec. 17, 2008 - PRLog -- ST. CHARLES, IL. – Just in time for goal-setting season, Anese Cavanaugh, Founder and President of Dare To Engage, Inc., has stepped up with a care package for Business Leaders and Entrepreneurs to set themselves up for success in 2009.

The package includes Cavanaugh's "7 Quick & Simple Ways to DOUBLE Your Team's Productivity" Resource Kit as well as a series of just released leadership articles – all in keeping with the motivational Dare To Engage® spirit of creating real business results, effective leadership and a great life all at the same time.

Complimentary access to the resource kit and articles is available by registering at www.daretoengage.com.

Through the care package, Cavanaugh encourages business leaders to co-create the reality they want in 2009. (She believes it's not a one-person job.)

"Life is a relationship – we're in a relationship with the people and events around us. The question is how do we want to be in that relationship?"

She adds that success in the New Year will come from engaging in relationships and taking action on events within their control.

"We can control how we show up, what we choose to do with information, and how we take care of ourselves. We can control how much we contribute to helping things go better or worse. We can control whether we hang back or whether we lead."

Business leaders can get a jump on their goals with Cavanaugh's "7 Quick & Simple Ways to DOUBLE Your Team's Productivity" Resource Kit, including audio, transcript and a quick start sheet to help leaders double their team's productivity by asking – and productively answering – 7 key questions.

The newly released articles include topics such as goal setting and planning for the New Year, self-care in leadership and eliminating workplace gossip.
