

Atlanta Heating & Air Professionals at E. Smith Heating and Air Make Going Green Affordable

E. Smith Heating and Air Conditioning announced the most advantageous incentives in HVAC residential market history.

April 22, 2009 - PRLog -- E. Smith Heating and Air Conditioning announced the most advantageous incentives in HVAC residential market history. High Efficiency, Carrier systems use environmentally friendly Puron® refrigerant and many meet the stimulus plan energy requirements for tax incentives up to $1,500.00.

In addition, Carrier is offering rebates of up to $1200.00 on qualifying systems and E. Smith adds additional discounts. The savings can add up to $3,000. These systems utilize Puron®, an environmentally sound refrigerant that won't deplete the ozone layer. Carrier introduced Puron® refrigerant six years ahead of the competition allowing for early field experience and paving the way to meet future energy requirements.

The Clean Air Act of 1990 prohibits the production of HCFC-based air conditioners and heat pumps by 2010, and bans Freon®-22 production by 2020. As Freon® production is reduced; its cost is predicted to increase. Freon®-12 in the automotive industry increased by a whopping 800% in a short seven years!

The financial incentives, energy savings, and environmental impact make this a great time to investigate these affordable HVAC options.
