Jan. 30, 2010 - PRLog -- (ATLANTA, GA) – Lisa Phillipson Photography is honored to announce a partnership with Lenses of Love: Hearts for Haiti, a national non-profit endeavor dedicated to helping the people of Haiti recover from the recent devastating earthquake.

Lisa Phillipson Photography is offering their support to organize relief services by offering their current sitting fee at a specially priced rate of $150 in which all proceeds will be donated to raise money for the people of Haiti. All donations will be given directly to Kentucky Adoption Services who will assist in relief efforts. This unique offer is available for families that book their session by Sunday, February 14, 2010 and complete their session by April 1, 2010. Founder of Lenses of Love and national children's photographer, Sally Clark created this heart-warming effort because "The devastation in Haiti has been heartbreaking to witness. As a mother, I can only hope that the world community would reach out if something like this happened to my family or my community. Imagining thousands of children without food, shelter, and water fired in me a desire to help."

Lisa Phillipson was moved to learn about the extreme poverty of Haiti after her mother's sponsorship of a little girl going to school and mission trip in 2002. This was right after the birth of her first son and she remembers vividly wishing all the children of Haiti could live as comfortably as him. Lisa is excited to have the opportunity to contribute to the relief effort of placing orphans in Haiti with loving parents to take care of them.

Lenses of Love is a photographer based charity effort devoted to raising funds for the Haiti relief organization. By offering specially priced photography services by a variety of highly regarded photographers across the country until Sunday, February 14, 2010, all proceeds will be donated to Kentucky Adoption Services to contribute to relief efforts.
