Dec. 6, 2010 - PRLog -- It's inevitable. At some point, your ex girlfriend IS going to end up seeing someone else, especially if you are waiting around to find out what the right thing to do is. The longer that you wait to get her back, the more likely it is that she will end up seeing someone else.

Before you get too bent out of shape over the prospects of her seeing someone else, you want to keep in mind that more than likely, it is just a rebound thing. And if it is just a rebound thing, then there is no use getting too worked up or nervous about the situation.

Here are a few tips to help you deal with the situation and get your girlfriend back if she is dating someone else:

1. Never lose your cool in front of her.

If you are alone or you are with friends or family, then it is perfectly fine for you to show the fact that you are upset that she might be seeing someone else. It's healthy to let it out a little, as long as you do not go overboard, and as long as it is not in front of her, it should not have such a negative effect on the situation.

2. Act as if you are happy for her.

When you are around her or speak to her, just act as if you are happy for her to be seeing someone else. You want to not just act like there is nothing wrong with her dating someone else, you also want her to see that you are mature in this situation and that you can keep your composure. After all, most guys CANNOT keep their composure or look as though they are happy for their ex girlfriend to be dating someone else, and that will put you in a good light in her eyes.

3. Mix your signals up a little and flirt with her, just to make her wonder what is going on.

When you act mature and hold your composure and seem to be totally happy for her to be seeing someone else, it is a total surprise to her if you also flirt with her. It will confuse her and make her think about you. And if she gets into the smallest argument with the new guy or she just does not feel like there is any real chemistry there, guess who the first "replacement" is going to be in her mind? You!
