

New York City Defense Lawyer Launches New Site for Summons Cases

The Law Offices of Michael S. Discioarro, LLC has announced a new website for summons cases.

Feb. 1, 2011 - PRLog -- Each year over 80,000 summons are written in New York City for disorderly conduct alone. When you add in all of the other type of summons cases and it easily reached over 200,000. The NYPD also has unwritten quotas that each officer must write at least four summons cases a month. When you multiply that by 25,000 active NYPD cops and the numbers are staggering. Now, there is a new website that helps those who have received one of these summonses from the NYPD. The Law Offices of Michael S. Discioarro, LLC has launched a new website that gives very relevant information for those charged with disorderly conduct, trucking tickets, public urination, and open container cases. The firm also handles larceny cases for those accused of petty shoplifting.

"I think this website will help a lot of people, we put some real informative content in it so people will know exactly what they are facing. Some of these tickets can give you a criminal record for the rest of your life." Mr. Discioarro said.

He further went on to say that because crime in New York City is at an all-time low, cops are focusing more on quality of life crimes and that means more tickets for everyone. At the end of the day it is a very lucrative way to raise money for the city. The firm can be reached by calling 917-519-8417 or going to <http://www.nycsummonslawyer.com>.
