LONG BEACH, Calif. - Aug. 15, 2015 - PRLog -- Concrete & Marble Transformerz understand just how much Long Beach and Redondo Beach sports fans love their football. And, with the 2015 NFL season scheduled to start on Thursday, September 10, 2015, local fans are searching for ways to show their sportsmanship. Epoxy flooring football logos are quickly becoming the new sports craze in the Los Angeles county area.

Epoxy Flooring Football Logos VS Fathead NFL Street Grips

Football logos on flooring have been popular for some time now. The craze seems to have started with the Fathead football logos. The Fathead Company manufactured football wall decals, NFL Standouts, NFL Power Packs and other sports fan wall logos. Now, the Fathead NFL Street Grips have some major competition as these football floor logos are temporary.

Epoxy flooring football logos are embedded in the floor. Then, they're preserved with one or more coats of epoxy. This keeps the football floor logos looking as good as new for years to come. And, depending on your budget, they can be just like your team's logo, include a slogan or your own unique design can be used as a tribute to your favorite football teams.

Here in Long Beach and Redondo Beach, Concrete & Marble Transformerz uses various methods to install epoxy flooring football logos. That's how The Transformerz are able to satisfy various homeowners and business owners with very different flooring needs.

Epoxy Embeds Football Logos INTO the Floor

Your favorite football team's logo can be pre-printed onto a perforated mesh, an adhesive label or coated stencil paper. Some Long Beach and Redondo Beach sports fans have even had unique graphics drawn or painted by local artists to create the most unique designs possible. This may sound just like any other Fathead-style floor art, but there's a big difference.

Epoxy flooring football logos are installed as simply as any other adhesive-style flooring art. The big difference is the epoxy coating that takes place after the logo has been applied to the floor. With an epoxy coating application or two, the sports team logo is literally embedded into the floor, versus just sitting on top of it.

This topcoat of epoxy not only embed the logo into the flooring, it helps to preserve the football logo. So, even if it's installed in a high-traffic area or industrial location, the logo won't get damaged. It will look as new as it did the day it was installed for many years. And, the logo design will look seamless if installed professionally using epoxy coating to preserve it.
