

Do I Need A Michigan Builders License?

This article will provide information for anyone who is looking to obtain more information on obtaining a Michigan Builders License. The Michigan Institute of Real Estate

June 20, 2007 - PRLog -- Livonia, MI -- This article will provide information for anyone who is looking to obtain more information on obtaining a Michigan Builders License. The Michigan Institute of Real Estate at www.builderinstitute.com provides the best home study courses and in-class training in the state of Michigan.

If someone provides work and material totaling $600.00 per job for any of the following, then they need to have a Michigan Builders License:

Basement waterproofing
Carpentry
Concrete
Excavation
Gutters, downspouts
House wrecking
Insulation
Masonry
Painting, decorating
Roofing
Siding
Storms, screens
Swimming pools
Tile, marble

Electrical, plumbing, or mechanical work requires special licensing other than the Michigan Builders License.

Shant S. from Farmington Hills said “The Michigan Institute of Real Estate provides awesome home study programs to pass the Michigan Builders Test. Everything that was included in the course was set up exactly like the real test. Namir K. George knows what he is talking about. The course was simple, fast, and very easy to understand.”

The Michigan Institute of Real Estate offers the following classes and training:

- 40 hour Pre-Licensing Course
- 6 hour Continuing Education
- Training for Success (post licensing training)
- Real Estate Math
- Real Estate Home Study Courses
- Builders Math
