

StationeryStyle.com Announces Association with Boatman Geller Fine Stationery

Premier stationery retailer announces the availability of Boatman Geller wedding, baby, holiday and personal stationery collections at its online store

Sept. 17, 2008 - PRLog -- International stationery retailer Stationery Style.com announces its association with Boatman Geller, one of the most beautiful and high-quality of personalized stationery made today. StationeryStyle.com now carries Boatman Geller's entire stationery line, which is available for purchase online through their web-based store.

"Boatman Geller is known both for their attention to detail and their stylish and contemporary designs," explains Gene Mason, Marketing Director. "The Boatman Geller line has both a classic and elegant feel, as well as contemporary colors and motifs that give their stationery a unique look that appeals to multiple generations. It's a trill for StationeryStyle.com to be in partnership with Boatman Geller to offer such a tremendous line of fine stationery through our online store. We expect the relationship to continue and prosper as more and more people are exposed to this excellent line of stationery products."

The Boatman Geller line began in 2002, and is the product of the imagination of Jane Boatman Geller, her husband Greg, and their family. Jane's cherished memories form the birthplace of her choices in design and color, and make their stationery line a coveted addition to StationeryStyle.com. Stationery Style carries a complete line of Boatman Geller products, including wedding invitations, birth announcements, holiday greetings, personal notes and stationery, corporate stationery and cards, and gift stationery collections.
