May 1, 2009 - PRLog -- AMERICAN BLINDS and COMFORTEX INSULATING SHADE SYSTEM CERTIFIED FOR FEDERAL ENERGY EFFICIENCY TAX CREDITS

Livonia, MI - American Blinds, Wallpaper and More a dealer for Comfortex Window Fashions, has announced that its ComforTrack™ Plus Energy Saving Sidetrack Insulation System will certify for a federal tax credit in 2009 and 2010. Homeowners of existing homes can earn a tax credit up to $1500.00 by installing the ComforTrack Plus Energy Saving Sidetrack Insulation System during the 2009 and 2010 calendar years.

As of February 17, 2009, The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 made some changes to the previous energy efficient improvements tax credits. Under section 25C of the Internal Revenue Code homeowners can now receive a 30 percent credit on the costs of qualified energy efficiency improvements.

This tax credit applies to improvements made to a primary residence from Jan. 1, 2009 through Dec. 31, 2010. Tax credits are available for many types of home improvements, and are listed on www.energystar.gov

How to Receive the Tax Credit

Consumers who purchase a Comfortex ComforTrack Energy Saving Sidetrack Insulation System from Comfortex, and dealers for are 'placed into service' (made ready and available for use) within existing homes from Jan. 1, 2009 to Dec. 31, 2010 are eligible for 30% tax credit. For additional information about tax credit eligibility, consumers should visit www.irs.gov.

Energy Saving Benefits

The Comfortex ComforTrack Plus Energy Saving Sidetrack Insulation System features several insulating honeycomb fabrics with an integrated sidetrack system that seals off the gaps between the shades and the windows to create a solid insulating barrier to drafts. By maximizing a home's efficiency, homeowners can reduce their utility bills and ultimately lessen their impact on the environment.
