Dec. 12, 2009 - PRLog -- Delivering on the popular theme of anti-aging, the t-shirts and other items sport clever slogans promoting longevity, rejuvenation and good health. These messages spread the mission of Methuselah Foundation: extending healthy human life.

The Long Life Shop is a Cafepress store. By building the Shop through this established retailer, the nonprofit organization is able to provide a full selection of products – 11 designs on over 20 products – with a minimal investment. Each purchase includes a contribution to the nonprofit.

The slogans and designs, created by Joe Landi, offer something for everyone. Some are humorous:

"Is It Me Or Is Aging Getting Old?"

"The Life You Extend May Be Your Own"

"90 is the New 60"

Others carry a more poignant message:

"Life, Longevity and the Pursuit of Healthiness"

"Aging Explore the Cure"

"Invest in People Futures"

T-shirts and other products are available now at the Long Life Shop. Orders processed today will be shipped in time for the holidays (visit the Shop for more details).
